

COLLEGE OF NURSING, AIIMS, NEW DELHI

VISION

To be a global leader in nursing education, research, and practice, fostering innovation, compassion, and excellence in healthcare, and preparing nursing professionals who will advance health equity and contribute to the well-being of society.

MISSION

- To provide high-quality, evidence-based nursing education that integrates theory, practice, and research.
- To develop competent, compassionate, and ethical nursing professionals who excel in patient-centered care and leadership.
- To foster an environment that encourages critical thinking, lifelong learning, and interdisciplinary collaboration in healthcare.
- To advance nursing research that improves patient outcomes, healthcare delivery, and the health of communities, nationally and globally.
- To actively contribute to health policy and leadership in national and international nursing initiatives.

OBJECTIVES

1. Educational Excellence:

To provide innovative, student-centered education that develops competent, confident, and compassionate nursing professionals.

2. Research and Scholarship:

To promote and conduct high-quality research that advances nursing science influences health policy, and improves clinical practices.

3. Clinical Practice and Leadership:

To prepare nurses for leadership roles in healthcare through rigorous clinical training, fostering critical thinking, decision-making, and ethical practice.

4. Community and Global Health Engagement:

To promote community-based and global health initiatives that empower nurses to address health disparities and improve population health.

5. Interdisciplinary Collaboration:

To encourage collaboration across disciplines, enabling nurses to work effectively within diverse healthcare teams to provide holistic, patient-centered care.

6. Lifelong Learning:

To foster a culture of continuous education and professional development among nursing students, faculty, and practicing nurses.

7. Policy and Advocacy:

To prepare nurses to influence and advocate for health policy changes that benefit patients, healthcare systems, and the nursing profession.

FUNCTIONS

1. Teaching and Training:

- Conduct undergraduate, postgraduate, and doctoral-level nursing programs.
- Integrate theoretical learning with clinical practice through simulation, clinical teaching, and patient care in hospitals and community health settings.
- Offer continuing nursing education programs for practicing nurses, focusing on updated practices, technologies, and advancements in healthcare.

2. Research and Innovation:

- Promote faculty and student engagement in nursing research.
- Facilitate collaborative research initiatives with national and international institutions, aiming to advance nursing science.
- Disseminate research findings through publications, conferences, and workshops.

3. Clinical Services:

- Provide high-quality nursing care to patients in AIIMS healthcare facilities, ensuring a direct link between academic learning and patient care.
- Lead in the development of clinical protocols and standards that enhance the quality of care.
- Establish nurse-led clinics and specialized services that address specific health needs of the population.

4. Leadership Development:

- Equip nursing students and professionals with leadership and managerial skills for roles in healthcare administration, policy formulation, and healthcare systems.
- Provide mentorship programs for emerging nursing leaders.

5. Community Engagement and Extension Services:

- Implement community outreach programs to deliver nursing care, health education, and preventive services in urban and rural settings.
- Promote the participation of nursing students and faculty in national health programs and health camps.
- Foster partnerships with NGOs, government bodies, and international organizations for broader health impact.

6. Faculty Development:

- Support ongoing faculty development through training in the latest teaching methodologies, research techniques, and clinical innovations.

- Encourage faculty exchange programs and international collaborations to maintain global standards in nursing education.

7. Policy Advocacy:

- Participate in health policy development at national and international levels, contributing nursing expertise to shape policies that promote health equity and access to care.
- Advocate for the nursing profession by engaging with regulatory bodies, professional organizations, and governmental agencies.

8. Student Support Services:

- Offer academic counseling, career guidance, and mental health support to nursing students.
- Facilitate student participation in extracurricular activities, leadership forums, and national/international competitions.

9. Collaboration with National and International Institutions:

- Establish and maintain collaborative relationships with leading nursing institutions and universities globally.
 - Engage in faculty and student exchange programs, joint research, and international conferences.
-