ASM CME on “Antibiotic Resistance: Renewed Fears” 2017

April 16th, 2017

Dear Colleagues,

American society for Microbiology in collaboration with All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) and University College of Medical Sciences (UCMS) jointly organizing one day CME on Antibiotic Resistance: Renewed Fears 2017 on Sunday, April 16th, 2017 from 9.00 am to 5.00 pm at Multipurpose Hall, India International Centre, 40 Max Mueller Marg Lodhi Estate, New Delhi 110003.

The ASM is strongly concerned about AMR pathogens and the strategies needed to minimize their economic, societal, and public health impacts. A new ASM initiative, the AMR Coalition, recently identified the global AMR threat as one of its priority need areas. ASM is eager to help and strengthen both National and global campaigns against AMR infections and their devastating effects through its ASM ambassadors. The ASM CME programme brings together National and International group of investigators with the sole task of creating an inspiring scientific session that highlights the newest research in antibiotic resistance, advances in the current knowledge and creates a stimulating venue for discussion. We aim to create awareness, present the highest quality of scientific content and research from a diverse array of fields.

You are requested to register as early as possible as only first 200 candidate will be registered on first come serve basis with registration fee of Rs.2000 by bank draft drawn in favour of ‘Antibiotic Resistance: Renewed Fears’ or online transfer to State Bank of India, Ansari Nagar, New Delhi (CA Account No.: 36020145572; IFSC Code: SBIN0001536).
